CHURCHILL REPEATS HIS EMPIRE SWAN-SONG

"No Part Of His Duty To Liquidate It"

VISUALISES MORE COSTLY BATTLES THAN WATERLOO AND GEDDESBURG NEXT YEAR

LONDON, November 9.

Mr. Churchill speaking at the Lord Mayor of London's banquet today said "since we were last gathered here, we and our Allies have had a year of almost unbroken victory in every theatre and on every front."

Mr. Churchill said that Axis prisoners captured lately have revealed that the Germans intend to try and establish a winter defence line from the Sangro River on their left flank through the mountainous country north of Isernia and Venafro down to the Garigliano river on their right flank. He said, the Russians had beaten German might and tyranny to an extent which may well prove mortal. "It must never be forgotten that there was nothing in the whole world nor could there have been created for several years any military organisation which could ever have given the blow which Russia has given or survived the losses which Russia has borne."

MOST SEVERE CAMPAIGN NEXT YEAR

Mr Churchill said that the Moscow Conference had made the Russians feel as they never felt before that it was the heartfelt wish of Britain and America to fight the war out with them in a loyal alliance and afterwards work with them on a basis of mutual respect and comradeship in the rebuilding of the distracted, tormented world. "I have not abandoned the hope that some time or other it may be possible for the heads of the three Governments to meet together."

Mr. Churchill said that the Allies would be foolish and blameworthy if they allowed their plans and actions to be based upon the prospect of an early collapse in Germany. "I myself am proceeding on the assumption that the campaign of 1944 in Europe will be the most severe and to the Western Allies the most costly in lives of any we have yet fought."

Mr. Churchill said that this was not the time for relaxation or soft thoughts on joys of peace and victory. "The hazards of great battles lie before us. We cannot exclude the possibility of new forms of attacks upon this island. We have been vigilantly watching for many months past every sign of preparation for such an attack. Should the attacks come, it would certainly call for the utmost efficiency and devotion in firewatching and homeguard and also for that display of firmness and fortitude for which the British nation had won renown.

"MORE COSTLY THAN WATERLOO"

"It is a reasonable assumption that unless we make some grave mistake in strategy the year 1944 will see the climax of the European War." We have broken the back of the U-boat war which at one time seemed our greatest peril."

Mr. Churchill added, "Unless some happier event occurs in which we have no right to count and the hand of Providence is directed by some crowning mercy, then 1944 will see the greatest sacrifice of life by the British and American armies and battles far larger and more costly than Waterloo or Geddesburg will be fought, sorrow will come to many homes in the United Kingdom and throughout the great Republic of the United States. Not only the fortunes of this fearful war but also the happiness of future generations depends on the fraternal association of Great Britain and the United States within and without prejudice to the larger world structure that will be erected to secure the peace and freedom of making."

Full Text

In accordance with tradition the Prime Minister Mr. Churchill was the guest of honour at the Lord Mayor's luncheon at Mansion House to-day making his first speech in the City since he became a Freeman of the City of London.

The Prime Minister was accompanied by Mrs. Churchill and the guests included F M Smuts and most of the members of the Cabinet.

"MILESTONES IN OUR JOURNEY"

Mr. Churchill who was received with prolonged cheering said "this is the fourth of your annual festivals which I have attended since the war began and I confess it seems to me that they have all been milestones in our journey. In November 1940 when we were quite alone in the midst of the Blitz we had occasion to repeat to the nations that were overrun by the Germans our British pledge that we would never abandon the struggle until one had been liberated from the Nazi yoke. I see no reason to modify that statement to-day. In 1941 I gave the solemn warning to the Japanese Government that if they went to war with the United States, we should immediately declare war on them. Well we got on with that.

NO LIQUIDATION OF EMPIRE

Last year in 1942 I thought it right to say that I did not consider it any part of my duty to liquidate the British Empire. I do not conceal from you that I hold the same opinion to-day. Since we were last gathered here we and our Allies have had a year of almost unbroken victory in every theatre and on every front.

British, Dominion and United States armies have cleared Africa of the enemy. Together British and United States Forces have conquered Sicily, Sardinia, Corsica and one third of Italy. We have broken the back of the U-boat war, which at one time seemed our greatest peril.

RUSSIA'S GLORIOUS ADVANCE

But I affirm indeed I am glad to proclaim that the outstanding event of this famous year has been the glorious advance of the Russian Army from the Volga westward across the Dnieper, thus liberating, as Marshal Stalin has told us, two-thirds of occupied Russian soil from the foul invader. In this process, the Russian Soviet Armies have inflicted deep and dire injury upon the whole life and structure of German military power. That once monstrous juggernaut engine of German might and tyranny has been beaten and broken, outfought and outmanoeuvred by Russian valour, generalship and science and it has been beaten to an extent which may well prove mortal. We and our American Allies have done and are doing our best to bring our forces across the sea and ocean into action against the enemy and I rate the Anglo-American air attack on Germany as one of the greatest of the extending ruin of the Hitler regime.

But it must never be forgotten that there was nothing in the whole world nor could there have been created for several years any military organisation which could ever have given the blow which Russia has given or survived the losses which Russia has borne.

SALUTE TO STALIN AND SOVIET ARMIES

Here in the city of London at our time honoured gathering we salute the Soviet Armies and Marshal Stalin. My Lord Mayor, we have all been cheered by the result of the Moscow Conference and we look forward to welcoming back in the next week or so our foreign Secretary from his most successful mission. There is no doubt that the full and frank discussion between the three Foreign Ministers M. Molotov, Mr. Eden and that gallant old eagle Mr. Hull who flew far on strong wings has had the effect of making our Russian friends feel as they have never felt before that it is the heartfelt wish of the British and American nations to fight the war out with them in loyal alliance and afterwards to work with them on a basis of mutual respect and comradeship in the resettlement and rebuilding of this tormented and distracted world.

The high aims set before ourselves were first outlined in the Atlantic Charter and now we have published in Moscow the all important Four-Power Agreement which looks to the future foundation of world peace after the storms are over. There are many in our thoughts to-day.

NO PROSPECT OF EARLY AXIS COLLAPSE

A great many people speak as if the end of war in Europe were near. I hope indeed they may prove right for certainly every month this devastating struggle continues carries human society into deeper depths and increases the toil, length and burden of recovery. We should however be foolish and blameworthy if we allowed our plans and actions to be based upon the prospect of an early collapse in Germany. There is danger in anything which diverts the thoughts and efforts of any of the Allied nations from the supreme task which lies before them, namely, that of beating down into dust and ruin the deadly foes and tyrants who so nearly subjugated the entire world to their domination (cheers). I am myself proceeding on the assumption that the campaign of 1944 in Europe will be the most severe and to the western Allies the most costly in lives of any we have yet fought. We must all brace ourselves for that task and strain every nerve for its successful accomplishment.

HITLER STILL HAS 400 DIVISIONS

This is no time for relaxation or soft thoughts on the joys of peace and victory. Hitler still has 400 divisions under his command or control. He has a party police force which gives him a grip on the agonised and regimented people of Germany incomparably stronger than anything which was at the disposal of the late Kaiser. The hazards of great battles lie before us. We cannot moreover exclude the possibility of new forms of attacks upon this land.

TILL VICTORY IS WON

We must go forward with unrelenting and unwearing effort through every living minute that is granted to us (cheers). This Government came together with the sole policy of making war until victory was won. We cannot to-day exclude from our minds nor need we do so the conviction that victory will certainly be won and that not only Germany but Japan will be forced into unconditional surrender. We have no need to exclude that from our mind, but that does not mean that our war task is done.

Another tremendous and practical duty is involved in what is called winning the war. Just as in the time of peace, plans for war and measures of defence ought to be in readiness everywhere for an emergency, so in time of war, we must make sure that confusion and chaos do not follow the victory of armies or stultify a surrender unexpectedly early by the enemy.

FOOD, WORK AND HOME

Now I regard it as a definite part of the duty and responsibility of this National Government to have it set about a vast and practical scheme to make sure that in the years immediately following the war there will be food, work and home for all. No erudition, no party doctrines or party prejudices or vested interests shall stand in the way of the simple duty of providing before the end of the war for food, work and home. Each plan must be prepared now during the war and they must come into action as soon as victory is won.

(MESSAGE INCOMPLETE)

COMMONS DEBATE ON MOSCOW DECISIONS

WESTMINSTER, Nov. 9: The British Government's statement on the Moscow Conference might be made on the third sitting day of the present session of Parliament, declared Mr. Clement Attlee, Deputy Prime Minister, in the Commons to-day.

He said that Parliamentary business had been so arranged as to leave that day clear for a possible Government statement and debate on it.

CIVIL AIR FORCE

Mr. Churchill told the Commons to-day in reply to a question that no discussions took place or decisions reached at the Moscow Conference regarding post-war arrangements for civil air traffic.

Replying to another question Mr. Churchill said: "It would not do for me to make a statement about the Three-Power Commission to be established in London. It would not be for me to make a statement on the agenda without having consulted other parties, but undoubtedly civil air traffic is a matter which will have to be discussed between Powers great and small.

FUTURE OF GREECE

Mr. Churchill said to-day that he had not given any undertaking regarding the future status of King George of Greece. Answering a question in the Commons to-day he added: "In accordance with the principles of the Atlantic Charter it will be for the Greek people to decide on the future of their country. The King of the Hellenes himself declared in a broadcast on July 4 that as soon as security of the country was complete and the necessities of military operations allowed, a free and general election for a Constituent Assembly would be held. Until the Greek people can express their will in conditions of freedom and tranquillity it is the settled policy of the British Government to support the King of the Hellenes who is at once our loyal ally and constitutional head of the Greek State."

No Anglo-U. S. Rivalry In Air After War

Lord Brabazon, former Minister of Aircraft Production, told the London Publicity Club to-night that he did not think that Britain need fear American civil aviation competition after the war. Before the war America was forging ahead in transport aircraft but when the war came, although American machines were very much boosted, Britis hwere ahead of anything in the world. After the war the number of transport machines wanted would be very few, compared with bombers. "America may have the advantage at first but we will soon get back to the position that we are in one the military side to-day."

He said incentive to America to run air services past Europe to the east or to Africa for she had a tremendous job to link up the two Americas and to deal with the Pacific.

"The great routes to India and South Africa cannot help being ours and we have an enormous slice of the world which we can develop and use without any rivalry from America."

U. S. MAKES LAKH PLANES ANNUALLY

NEW YORK: The United States is now producing a 100,000 planes yearly, said the War Production Board Chief, Mr. Donald Nelson, at rally celebrations of the Tenth Anniversary of the Establishment of Diplomatic relations between the U.S.S.R. and the United States. Mr. Nelson said that a very substantial proportion of the planes "are heavy bombers of the kind that are now shattering cities throughout Germany."

Mr. William Green, President of the American Federation of Labour, said: Let me announce here unequivocally that the American Federation of Labour supports and demands unstinted aid to Russia in the present emergency and also in the post-war period.

KING TO ABDICATE

From Reuter's special correspondent in Southern Italy:

It is almost certain that King Victor Emmanuel will abdicate, but whether immediately or after considerable delay has been the subject of considerable speculation. Negotiations may be proceeding to attempt to obtain succession for Prince Umberto rather than a regency on behalf of a priceling.

General opinion of the man-in-the-street in Bari and Brindisi seems to be the King has already lost the throne.

YUGOSLAV-PATRIOTS ACTIVE

The Free Yugoslav Radio to-day broadcast a 'communique' from the Headquarters of the Yugoslav Army of Liberation saying: "On the peninsula of Pelyesac in Dalmatia, Partisan troops have pushed back German troops in the western direction." HITLER'S SUCCESSOR

Quadvirate With Goering At Head

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 9.

The question who is to succeed Hitler was discussed at a special meeting of Gauleiters at Hitler's Headquarters, reports the Berne correspondent of the "Dagens Nyheter."

Though Hitler has been feeling the strain of war he is not actually ill. The discussion was prompted by a desire to examine the general war situation and clear up the postponed question of succession after the flight of Hess.

It was decided to appoint a quadvirate consisting of Goering, Himmler, Goebbels and Bohramann to take power if Hitler dies, with Goering as Chairman. If he dies a successor is to be appointed from the remaining three.

Bohramann is considered most likely as he is Hitler's intimate adviser and chief of the Nazi Party Chancellery. He now has the same authority over all ranks as Hess had and his influence is growing daily.—Reuter.

(From Our Correspondent)

LONDON, November 9.

As the present session of Parliament is coming to a close and the opening of the new session draws nearer speculation centres on probable changes in the British Cabinet.

It is also hoped in some political circles that the speech from the Throne may give some guidance to Lord Wavell in finding a solution of the Indian political deadlock.

Lobby speculation during weekend was that Lord Simon, Sir James Grigg, Messrs. Jowitt, Ernest Brown, Sir Arthur Slater and Mr. Richard Law are likely to be affected.

After the Commons debate on Indian food crisis on Thursday "Reynolds Weekly" in an outspoken article has demanded the sacking of Mr. Amery from the India Office.

Blitz To Bring Nazis To Knees

Allied Project Before Opening Second Front In Europe

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.

The theory of victory through air power is now being given an acid test with a definite deadline. After that if the bombing effort fails an all-round invasion of the European continent will begin. That is the opinion of military observers here, who say that the date of the deadline has been communicated to the Russian authorities.

Air Marshal Sir Arthur Harris, Chief of the R. A. F. Bomber Command, and Gen. Arnold, Chief of the United States Army Air Forces, have until that time to force Germany's surrender.

The theory here is that if 40 per cent of Germany's industrial capacity is knocked out, she will have to surrender.

The use of Russian bases for shuttle bombing may be involved in an all-out aerial assaut, which is expected to rach its climax shortly.—Reuter.

SOVIET ADVANCE 55 MILES FROM KIEV

MOSCOW, Nov. 9.

Russian motorised spearheads thrusting north-west of Kiev are to-day 55 miles beyond the Ukrainian capital, says Reuter's Special Correspondent. In this sector they are now advancing from Marianovka. On the road running south-west towards Berdichev they have reached a point 50 miles beyond Kiev.

A junction between Russians moving down from Kiev and those holding the Pereyaslav bridgehead 50 miles down the river has almost been effected.

To-day, on the third day after the storming of Kiev, the main German forces facing Gen Vatutin's army are still in full retreat towards Korosetn, Zhitomir and Berdichev as Soviet troops press home their advantage on a big semi-circular front south-east of Kiev the Russians are accumulating a big striking force which constitutes a grave menace to the Germans holding out inside the Dnieper Bend some two hundred miles further east.—Reuter.

AMERY EMBARRASSES INDIA GOVT.'S FOOD MEMBER

Assailed In Assembly Jwala Prasad Admits Inability To Take Responsibility For Secretary Of State's Statements

NEW DELHI, Nov. 9

The Food Member faced a barrage of questions in the Assembly to-day, on Mr. Amery's statements in England on the food situation in India. Mr. Neogy asked whether Mr. Amery's statement that the death rate in Bengal was estimated at about 1,000 a week was based on information supplied by or through the Government of India.

Sir Jwala Prasad said that the Government of India had supplied information on the food situation, but it was not known whether Mr. Amery's statements were based on that information. "We have been sending telegrams to the Secretary of State from week to week."

Mr. Neogy: Have H.M.G. any independent sources of information of their own apart from these telegrams?

Sir Jwala Prasad said they had.

Sir Frederick James: How was it that in the early stages of the crisis, the Secretary of State made such grossly inaccurate statements in Parliament?

ASK AMERY

Sir Jwala Prasad: The question ought to be addressed to the Secretary of State, I am afraid, Sir.

Mr. Neogy: Is the Hon. Member in a position to supply a copy of the White Paper on the food situation?

Sir Jwala Prasad: We have not yet received it. I haven't seen it.

Mr. Neogy: Is the Hon. Member in a position to say whether the White Paper is based on information supplied by the Government of India?

Sir Jwala Prasad: I am not in a position to say so.

Mr. Neogy: I take it that the Government of India were not consulted with regard to the issue of the White Paper?

Sir Jwala Prasad reiterated that statements were sent to the Secretary of State from time to time and the Secretary of State might have based the White Paper on those, but the Food Member could not say certainly: he had not seen the White Paper.

Mr. Neogy: As regards reports of deaths from starvation, are they seen by the Home Secretary before despatch?

Answer: No.

"IMPORT" OF EXPORTS

Question: Then how does the Hon. Member ensure that there is no over dramatization of the situation? (Laughter).

Sardar Mangal Singh: Is Government importing half a dozen experts?

Sir Jwala Prasad: We are not importing any just now.

Sardar Mangal Singh: When are you importing them? (Laughter).

A Member: What does the Hon. Member mean by "just now."

Sir Jwala Prasad: Well, at the present moment. (Laughter).

Mr. Rangiah Naidu: Are there any food experts in India?

Sir Jwala Prasad: I expect all hon. members are food experts.

BENGAL'S NEEDS

The civil population of Bengal, said the Food Member in reply to Mr. Chattopadhyaya, was estimated at 63 millions, and the requirements of this population together with the military population whose size it was not in the public interest to reveal, were estimated by the Government of Bengal to be as follows:—RICE: 3.9 million tons; WHEAT: 21,000 tons; MILLETS and MAIZE: 2,000 tons.

The deficits estimated by the Bengal Government were as follows: RICE: 450,000 tons, WHEAT: 112,000 tons, MILLETS and MAIZE: 2,000 tons. The quantities of food grains supplied from outside the province to Bengal during the six months April to September 1943 were: RICE 204,000 tons, including arrivals during the free trade period, WHEAT and WHEAT PRODUCTS 187,000 tons, MILLETS and GRAIN 48,500 tons.

GRUEL RATIONS

Mr. Neogy: Is the Hon. Member aware that expert opinion is that the allowances of gruel given to destitutes are not supposed to be sufficient to keep a fair-sized rat alive? (Laughter).

Sir Jwala Prasad: That is a matter of opinion. When I visited Calcutta I was told that it was quite sufficient and in some cases too much.

Mr. Neogy: Will the Hon. Member try gruel on himself and see how he flourishes? (Laughter).

In the course of replies to questions about the food conferences, Pandit L. K. Maitra interjected: How many attended the Conference and to what extent were they responsible for reducing the food supply in Delhi? (Laughter).

Mr. Abdur Rashid Chaudhury: Is it true that representatives of profiteers were directly or indirectly on the Conference? (Laughter).

Sir Jwala Prasad: That is a new one on me.

GOVT. TO PURSUE CHEAP MONEY POLICY

Taking up non-official resolutions, the Assembly further discussed Dr. Ziauddin Ahmed's resolution, which was moved in the last session recommending to the Governor-General-in-Council to modify their currency policy and to concentrate their attention more on the stability of prices than on the stability of the bank rate of interest.

Mr. Jamnadas Mehta, supporting the resolution, said that inflation was at the bottom of the great tragedy of starvation in this country. As a result of it, according to his calculations, he claimed, the people of India in the last four years of war had to deny to themselves 20,000 crore worth of goods and services. He believed no country in the world had made greater sacrifices in the form of such denial. The 400 million people of India were nearly casualties in this war, unless the present price level was not drastically lowered. Mere stabilisation would not do. It would continue the present appalling conditions.

Dr. P. N. Bannerji laid stress on greater production of consumer goods in this country and making available in the market large quantities of them. This, he believed, would help lower the prices.

Sir Aziz-ul-Haque, Commerce, Industries and Civil Supplies Member, claimed that so far as textiles were concerned, Government had succeeded in bringing down prices. He related the achievements of the last six months, and said when the Government started tackling the problem, it was much the same as food was today.

The Commerce Member then turned to the activities of his Department in other directions, its anti-hoarding and anti-profiteering drive, the control of medicines and drugs and making available more consumer goods for civilian use in this country. As for medicines and drugs, he said, the question of instituting an efficient control was under the active consideration of the Government, of India and measures might be expected very shortly.

Moulvi Abdul Ghani complained of "the sad experience we have had of the controlling agencies and the corruption prevalent among them". He said unless these agencies were improved, all measures of Government would be defeated. He asked that more gold and silver should be made available to the peasantry.

Mr. Azhar Ali drew attention to acute distress in the country which he attributed among other causes, to the financial policy of Government. He warned the Government that it would be very serious indeed if bread riots were to take place in the country.

Sir Abdul Halim Ghaznavi felt that Government had done things which would never reduce prices. India's sterling balances in London were the main trouble. Unless something was done to use those sterling balances in a manner that would decrease the Note circulation in the country, no great results would be achieved in the way of lowering the price level. He wanted the Government to buy up British investments in this country.

Choudhry Mohd. Hussain moved an amendment altering the text of the resolution, which in its amended form, recommended to the Governor-General-in-Council "to give the foremost place in their monetary policy to the stabilisation of prices, on which the prosperity of the country largely depends".

Sir Ziauddin Ahmed agreeing to the amendment spoke in defence of his doctrines about inflation. He asked the Finance Member to raise the purchasing power of the Rupee. "At present the security of the paper currency is the prestige of the Government. In order to maintain its prestige it should be the duty of the Government to see that the purchasing power of the Rupee is the same as it was before the war".

JEREMY'S RETORT TO MEHTA

Sir Jeremy Raisman, Finance Member, in accepting the revised resolution made it clear that Government's policy in regard to the rate of interest on Government borrowings was quite definite and deliberate and they had no intention to depart from the cheap money policy hitherto followed: It had been vigorously criticised from certain quarters but it had the overwhelming support of the majority opinion in this country.

Referring to Mr. Jamnadas Mehta's estimate of India's contribution in goods and services, the Finance Member asked him to endeavour to import some sense of ordinary proportion into his handling of figures. It was, however, no part of his contention, Sir Jeremy proceeded, that this country had not been called upon to make extremely large contributions in the way of goods and services to this war, and it was clear that in that process we were receiving money which we were not able to use.

TAXATION THE REMEDY

What was happening was that goods and services for civilian consumption had grown scarce and the quantity of money had grown greater. The remedy was to try and reduce the amount of money in circulation by taxation and borrowing and at the same time, as far as possible, to increase the quantity of goods available for consumption or if that could not be done, to try and control the prices at which those goods were sold. Control of commodities in the conditions of India might have been expected to be extremely difficult, but Government were, he hoped, making progress even in regard to food and at the last food conference a remarkable degree of unanimity was achieved. But unless the province which was the main producer and supplier of food for the rest of the country took a larger and wider view of its responsibilities, the alternative remedy could only be sought by going elsewhere for the supply of food to the distressed area involving an extremely tragic diversion of resources.

OBJECT:
The company has been formed for the purposes set forth in the Memorandum and particularly for carrying on business as silk Reelers (Manufacturers of Silk Yarns), Throwsters (Twisters of Silk Yarns), Spinners of Yarns from Silk Waste, Cotton, etc., and Weavers of Silk & Cotton Fabrics.

SILK REELING FACTORY:—
The Company has already started reeling of Silk Yarns in its own Factory fitted and equipped under the entire supervision and direction of the Government, with 62 Steam Basins necessary machinery and appliances designed on the most up-to-date scientific principle for reeling and reeling of Yarns. The factory is located at Jhumka near Bhabta Rly. Station B. &. A. Rly., in the district of Murshidabad, the famous place for Bengal Silk. Bhabta Rly. Station is only 106 miles away from Calcutta, affording full facility to investigate workings of the factory from Head Office of the Company at Calcutta.

The following true copies of opinions will enlighten of the bright prospects of the Company.

"I open the Jhumka Silk Factory of Messrs. Aryan Silk & Cotton Mills, Ltd. this afternoon, I was taken round the factory by the Managing Agents and was interested to see the workmen at work producing Silk Yarns. I was glad to find many ingenious devices which effect improvement in the Yarn without sacrificing simplicity of operation.....I wish the factory all success.

Sd/- S. K. Chatterjee, I.C.S., District Magistrate, Murshidabad.

The 18th December, 1942."

"I was present at the opening ceremony of Jhumka Silk Factory I was impressed by the type of Silk Yarns produced in the factory.

Sd/- D. P. Rai Choudhury, Dy Director of Sericulture, Bengal,

The 13th December, 1942."

"I visited Jhumka Silk Factory.....I was highly pleased to see the smooth of the machines and the efficiency of the management.

Sd/- S. K. Choudhary, Asst. Director, Textiles, D. G. Supply, New Delhi, 31-12-42."

"The Aryan Silk & Cotton Mills, Ltd. were helped to purchase the Jhumka Factory with the buildings, drying chamber and boilers at a very small and nominal price. To erect it in normal times would cost not less than Rs. 50,000/- but at the present time not less than a lakh of Rupees.

Sd/- C. C. Ghosh, Special Officer Silk, Government of Bengal, the 20th March, 1943."

"It is due to remarkable pluck on the part of the Managing Agents that they have been able to start manufacturing business of the Company by setting up a big steam filature as stated above within the very first year of the incorporation of the Company, with profit.

In reeling Silk Yarns, a calculation of profits from 15% to 25% would be reasonable and conservative. The said profit becomes almost doubled when the said Yarns have got operated in the Company's own Throwing plant and such doubled profit becomes almost redoubled when the said Yarns have got operation again in its own Weaving Mills. Moreover, the amount of profit is magnificently swelled up when the operation of Spun Silk from wastes has begun

FURTHER PROGRESS:
An expansion of further 48 Steam Basins has already been undertaken and construction and setting up a machinery are nearing completion with all rapidity.

THROWING (TWISTING) PLANTS:—
The above profit becomes doubled when Silk Yarns are twisted before placing the same in the market. Thrown Silk Yarns have a vast internal as well as export Market. It is mainly used for the manufacture of high class Fabrics for military, civil and industrial purposes. It has a vast prospect and immense possibility for the Company to work up this line Silk Yarns produced in the Company's own factory and twisted by the Company's own Plants would yield profits in a double scale for the shareholders to enjoy.

SPINNING AND WEAVING MILLS:
The Company would also take up to set up Silk and Cotton Mills for production of various kinds of piecegoods including Fabrics of natural Silk. Mercerised or Silk Finished Cotton, Silk and Cotton mixed, etc., and Hosieries of such qualities and designs as are readily adoptable and suitable for creating a demand in the market. The operation of Spinning and Weaving in a line as suggested above is much more profitable than the operation of Weaving for piecegoods of Cotton alone. The Directors have firm conviction that the Spinning and Weaving operation would give a very sound and lucrative profit for the Company.

SPUN SILK
Spun Silk is manufactured by spinning of Yarns from Silk Wastes. This is a very profitable line of business in Silk. Until recently there was no Spun Silk Mills in India. Only a few years back a Spun Silk Mill was set up at Channapatana in Mysore which has been working with a very satisfactory results. This Spun Silk Mill has sufficient supply of Silk Wastes from the state of Mysore alone in which it is situated. In the absence of any other Spun Silk Mills in India, Bengal has been exporting all her Silk Wastes to the different Ports of the United Kingdom, America and the Continent. Immediately before the war, the prices of the Bengal Silk Wastes used to fluctuate between 9d to 12d per lb. C.I.F. these foreign ports. In exchange, Bengal used to import Spun Silk Yarns at rates fluctuating between 4 sh. to 6 sh. per lb. F.O.B. these foreign ports of embarkation. From this it can easily be conceived what a tremendous profit there would be if and when the gap of margin is calculated between the prices of Silk Wastes and the Yarns Spun from the same. At the soonest possible convenience the Company would set up a Spun Silk Mills in Bengal which will no doubt be in a position to yield a very satisfactory return for the shareholders to earn.

Sugar Ration In Thana

The Central Rationing Committee, Borough Municipality, Thana, in a resolution says:—

"The Committee has been compelled, reluctantly of course, to reduce the individual quota of sugar for the current month (November) to one lb and a quarter instead of two lbs as hitherto. The five ounces of sugar ration allotted to the Committee is utterly insufficient and inadequate to meet even the normal requirements of the average citizen, but the Committee hopes that the powers that be will see to the ridiculousness of the very meagre quota allowable under the circumstances and will take immediate measures to increase the town's quota to a reasonable extent.

New Creche And Dispensary Opened For Sassoons' Workers

BOMBAY, Tuesday.

The opening ceremony of the new Creche and Dispensary of the Alexandra and E. D. Sassoon Mills was performed and portrait of Sir Victor Sassoon was unveiled this evening by Mrs. Wadia and Seth Govindram Seksaria respectively at the Alexandra Mills compound, Kalachowki.

In the course of his opening speech, Mr. M. R. Morarka stated that he was sorry that Sir Victor Sassoon and Sir Frederick Stones were absent from Bombay. They sent messages wishing the function all success.

Continuing, Mr. Morarka stated that owing to increase in the number of children at the Rachael Mills Creche, accommodation was found inadequate. Hence Messrs. E. D. Sassoon and Co. decided to have a separate creche in the Alexandra Mills compound itself. This would make it easier for the women workers of this mill,—about 500 in number, to bring their little children in greater numbers. Further, though women workers were legally entitled to Maternity Benefits only after nine months' continuous service in the mills, Sassoons offer benefits to women who have put in even six months' service.

First-aid classes were given by three lady doctors. Concluding, Mr. Morarka said that Sassoons have extended these medical facilities to the families of the working classes and of the clerical staff as well.

He then requested Mrs. Wadia to declare open the new Creche and Dispensary and Seth Govindram Seksaria to unveil Sir Victor Sassoon's portrait. Mrs. Wadia in the course of her speech, congratulated the Sassoon Groups for the various amenities offered to the workers of their mills.

Seth Govindram Seksaria, while unveiling the portrait, recapitulated the work done by the Sassoon Group.

Lady Rama Rao, explained how through the Labour Welfare organisation she got connected herself with the mill workers and congratulated the Sassoon Group for being the pioneers in such Labour Welfare work.

The guests then went round the Creche and the Dispensary.

The Bombay Symphony Orchestra Concert

The fifth concert of the year at the C. J. Hall on Monday evening was purely orchestral, and very wide and representative in the selection of composers including Wagner, Beethoven, Haydu, Couperin, Massenet and Vincent D'Indy.

Haydu's Surprise Symphony, was brilliantly rendered bringing out the strong Teutonic vitality and the vigorous style of the composer. The strings were at their best here and in Massenet's Lyrical Prelude, where the tender passages were effectively executed. Couperin's concert suite exhibited an extensively varied range, light and andante, whereas all the force and tone of the full orchestra was brought out to advantage in the robust and dramatic passages of D'Indy's Symphonic Poem and Wagner's "Ride of the Valkyries". The ensemble of the wind instruments, the brass and the strings shows definite improvement.

The Conductor might consider attempting a few contemporary compositions occasionally.

SECOND Childhood

Hard to believe, that this middle-aged executive has resuscitated his childhood friend—the slate!

Instead of simple sums, it now carries notes of telephone conversations, figures, and appointments. It saves daily paper of ten times its own surface.

Follow this lead back to second childhood—help to save paper—for essential uses only.

Revise all your stationery, forms and statements. You can save over 25% of the paper surface you are now using.

There is an acute paper shortage. Your attention is drawn to the following methods of avoiding waste of paper:—

- Use the smallest sheet of paper for any purpose that will do the job.
- Write, type and print on both sides of the paper. For short letters, bills and accounts reduce the size of the paper.
- Do not make copies except where absolutely necessary.
- Always type single spacing.
- In all cases (letters, commercial printing jobs and pamphlets, etc.) curtail margins.
- Reduce the size of labels on manufactured goods.
- Use the back of the letters received for the carbon copy of your replies.

GOVERNMENT AND THE PRESS

The Standing Committee of the All-India Newspaper Editors' Conference has acted wisely in deciding that "it should not, as a body, associate itself with the Publicity Advisory Committee." The words "as a body" are inserted obviously to respect the right of individual members of the former Committee to associate themselves with the latter as and when they deem necessary without prejudice to the policy of the Conference. But in view of the present decision of the Standing Committee, the association of individual members with the Government Publicity Advisory body is likely to expose them and the Committee to misunderstanding by the public. The reasons for the decision are not hard to guess. Government's publicity campaign is often enough against the best interests of the country. And refusal to be in any way associated with a body that carries on such propaganda is understandable. Addressing the first meeting of the Publicity Advisory Committee last week, Sir Sultan Ahmed, Information and Broadcasting Member, said: "Under modern conditions every department of a progressive Government needs to ensure that it has an adequate mechanism of contact with the influential public, and in a country where full responsible parliamentary Government is not yet in force, that contact can suitably be provided by advisory committees." This is all right if it is suggested that Government, particularly one which is not responsible to the Legislature, should duly respect public opinion. But at present often enough Government, taking advantage of its being constitutionally irresponsible, seeks to defy public opinion and to net in individual leaders for the purpose of bolstering up its position, if not to use them as buffers against public discontent.

Another reason for the Standing Committee's decision may be the Government's repeated and unwarranted assaults on the most elementary rights of the Press. It is the duty of the Government of India to advise the Provincial Governments concerned to pay more respect to the rights and liberties of the Press. Till the attitude of Government in general towards the Press is considerably improved it behoves the Standing Committee of the Editors' Conference not to associate itself with the Government Publicity Advisory Committee.

Turkey And The War

It is quite likely that before long Turkey may become a centre of interest as a result of the Moscow Conference. It is already known that Mr. Eden has had long talks at Cairo with M. Menemencioglu, the Turkish Foreign Minister. The conversations are claimed to be secret but a significant light is thrown upon the situation by an article in the Moscow review "War and Working Class" which has of late been speaking in a tone and manner suggestive of an organ of the Kremlin. Says the paper: "The position of some of the States which still adhere to the policy of neutrality, as for example, Turkey, will be of big significance. The passing of such neutral States to the policy of direct support for the anti-Hitler coalition will be of important significance for solving the task of decreasing the duration of the war." Apparently it was decided at the Moscow Conference that, in order to shorten the war, the time had come to get Turkey into the war and thus open an easy route to the Balkans and Greece. And Mr. Anthony Eden was charged with the mission of bringing about the desired development. What has been Turkey's answer?

FRANKLY SPEAKING

Hitler Vows

There was a time when the German Fuhrer's speech used to be scanned by an anxious world to discover what he would fall on next and in which new direction his conquering Wenrmacht would march. That time is gone. Even Hitler himself has forgotten it. Now, he rarely speaks and when he does, as at Munich the other day, his oration is the speech of a man on the defensive. It is remarkable only for the spirited manner in which he vows that he will never surrender. His threats have become ridiculous by ineffectual repetition and his sword-waving even more so. So that the only new and noteworthy thing one finds in his Munich speech is that his nerves are still in good condition and that he and his generals have not quarrelled. It is the speech of a man who suffers from growing desperation and hopelessness.

"Unexpected Conference"

There is a cable from Washington dated November 8 to the following effect. "President Roosevelt has summoned military and naval chiefs to the White House for an unexpected conference". One would ordinarily interpret such a conference, which included General Marshal, Admiral King and General Arnold, to have been called to discuss the military aspects of the Moscow decisions particularly the problem of the Second Front. With a little more optimism one would expect that it quite probably suggested the launching of the Second Front earlier than planned before the Conference. But the expression "unexpected" is rather intriguing. It excites curiosity as to the nature of the development that called for an unexpected conference at the White House.

Mischievous And Wasteful

The different parties in the Central Legislative Assembly may be congratulated on having carried, through united action, the adjournment motion to censure Government for its "unwise decision to send non-official gentlemen selected by it to undertake a tour abroad in Great Britain and to speak on India's war effort." It is significant that not a single non-official member could be found to defend Government's decision. Sir Sultan Ahmed and Sir Ramaswami Mudaliar could not but support it. It is ridiculous to suggest that a delegation is being sent to Britain and America at a huge cost only to give publicity to India's war effort four years after the commencement of the war. Nor is the delegation at all representative of the country. If it were, it would not have been selected by Government. As pointed out by Sir Yamin Khan, a member of the Muslim League Party, the selection of the delegation was enough testimony that the whole thing was being engineered to disprove the case that the war effort would have been far greater had the political parties been conciliated. Sir Sultan said that the delegation was instructed "not to say one word of politics". Even if this is an accurate statement of facts without any reservation, the delegation may be trusted to suggest that war effort is big enough to be continued as it is without any need to conciliate political parties.

PLIGHT OF BENGAL

Starvation, Disease And Death Staring Millions In The Face

BY J. C. MAITRA

I have just returned from an extensive tour in Bengal. The places I have visited, apart from Calcutta, are Chittagong, Sitakund, Dacca, Narayanganj, Munshiganj, Kushtea and Santipur and several villages nearabout. The condition of the people in Calcutta has been described by many people before me. So I need not labour on it here again. But the present plight of the people is really indescribable. It simply beggars description. I could hardly believe the stories I had heard and read until I saw their pitiable condition in a rather exaggerated form with my own eyes. To say that the professional beggars of the province were starving and dying in the streets of Calcutta would be a blasphemy against those homeless people who had been reduced to the position of street beggars after selling their all, thanks to the bungling of the bureaucracy.

CLASSES AFFECTED

The class of professional beggars departed from this world long, long ago—at the very first signs of the shortage of food grains. Then came the turn of fishermen, Chamars, Weavers and landless labourers. These healthy and physically strong communities are about to be wiped out from the face of Bengal. They are Hindus and Muslims and so-called Depressed Classes. The cruel hand of death is falling on them mercilessly without any distinction of caste or creed or political colours. They are all starving, falling under the clutches of cholera, dysentery and other abdominal diseases, and departing from this world long before their natural lease of life. With the approach of winter, pneumonia and typhoid are getting ready to play their diabolical part in this cruel drama. The so-called lower middle classes have also been hard hit.

"The Statesman" of Calcutta has just published the death-rates in Calcutta which are indeed appalling. It is, however, surprising that the number is still very small in comparison with the general suffering of the people. After months of starvation and starvation diets, they are called upon to sustain their lingering lives in their emaciated bodies with unhealthy gruels which have little vitamin or protein. Even if they are supplied with this food regularly, they are bound to die, according to authoritative medical opinion in Calcutta, sooner or later. 'Khitchri' is hardly a wholesome food on weak stomachs. Thick 'atta rotis' are equally dangerous to dried up intestines. Bajri, an unknown food in Bengal, has added to their woes. Diarrhoea, dysentery and Cholera have become common among these people.

HUGE DEATH ROLL

Unfortunately I could not get the exact figures of death in the various districts during the last few months. But I was assured by the Secretary of the District Communist Party at Chittagong, Com. Jasodanandan Chakravarty, that their city, which has a civil population of barely 50,000. Yielded the heavy toll of nearly 3,000 deaths during the last five months. And the total number for the district, he stated, might be anywhere between 50,000 and one lakh! It is mostly due to cholera accruing from starvation. At this rate the total for the whole province must be enormous.

We have heard of people searching gutters and dustbins for morsels of food, and of eating whatever they could find. But where did they pass their nights?—In the streets, on the pavements, or the otlas of shops and residential quarters. There are no clothes to change when they get wet. They are already in tatters—the last remnants of their worn-out or sold wardrobes. There are men, women and children—and babies too! It is no wonder therefore that these human skeletons—without any vitality or power of resistance in them—should catch one disease or another and fall victims to them. The rainy season is over now. But winter is fast approaching. And Bengal's cold is pretty severe. Without any shelter and clothing, how these people, who number millions in the cities, towns and villages, would survive the next few months heaven alone can tell!

GOVERNMENTS MOVING SLOWLY

What I saw in the street of Calcutta was in evidence everywhere—in a larger or smaller degree. The Bengal Relief Committee of Sir Badridas Goenka and various other humanitarian organisations and private bodies and individuals are moving heaven and earth to alleviate the suffering of the distressed people and are trying to save Bengal from utter wreck and ruin. I shall write about the conditions of the various parts of the province in detail in my subsequent articles. The task is, however, a gigantic one. With the Central and Provincial Governments moving at a snails pace, I do not know how the affected people would be saved. Rice, milk, clothing and medicines, are still unavailable in sufficient quantities. By the time they are brought within easy reach, Bengal may be turned into a huge grave.

GOVT. TURNS TO CIVILIAN NEEDS

Finance Member's Assurance On Move For Stabilisation Of Prices

NEW DELHI, Nov. 9.

"We have reached a stage at which in order to maintain the war effort it is necessary to cater for civilian requirements," said Sir Jeremy Raisman, Finance Member, in the Assembly to-day in accepting a resolution of the Muslim League Party urging stabilisation of prices.

The Finance Member observed that an attempt had to be made even now to some extent at the expense of the war effort to switch the country's productive resources to meeting the civilian consumers' demands, and Government were continually at work to promote an expansion of production to meet civilian needs.

The House finally passed Sir Ziauddin's resolution in the amended form moved by Chaudhary Mohamed Hussain recommending to the Government of India "to give the foremost place in their monetary policy to the stabilisation of prices, on which the prosperity of the country largely depends."

THREE DAYS FOR FOOD DEBATE

Other non-official resolutions on the agenda, some of which dealt with the food situation, were not moved in accordance with the understanding that Government would allot three days for the food debate. The Leadeder of the House announced that Friday this week and Monday and Tuesday next week would be devoted to discussion on food.

Mr. Jamnadas Mehta was the first speaker on Sir Ziauddin's resolution.

Three Adjournment Motions Ruled Out

NEW DELHI, Nov. 9.

An adjournment motion was attempted in the Assembly to-day by Sir Abdul Halim Ghaznavi to discuss the order issued by the Chief Press Adviser prohibiting the publication outside Bengal of the order served on the "Amrita Bazar Patrika" by the Governor of Bengal preventing that paper from printing or publishing any document by way of reference or otherwise to economic conditions in Bengal, the food supply situation, etc.

The Chair also ruled out a number of other adjournment motions including Mr. T. T. Krishnamachari's to discuss the decision of the Government of India to sign the relief and rehabilitation agreement before consulting the legislature.—

Mr. Kailas Behari Lal's adjournment motion regarding lathi charge on political prisoners in the Bhagalpur Jail and consequent hunger-strike was ruled out on the ground that matter concerned provincial administration.

Mr. Jamnadas Mehta's adjournment motion regarding profiteering by the Sind Government on supplies of foodgrains and the continuance of the Central Government's subsidy was ruled out on the ground that the issue could not be made the subject matter of an adjournment motion.—United Press.

All Acquitted In Peshawar Express Derailment Case

Judge Holds Evidence Of Approvers Appeared To Be Tutored

JALGAON, Nov. 9.

Agreeing with the unanimous verdict of not guilty of the assessors, Mr. A. R. Khan, Sessions Judge, Jalgaon, acquitted to-day all the 11 accused in the Peshawar Express Derailment Case.

The prosecution case was that on the night of October 2/3 last year, the Down Peshawar Express was derailed near Chalisgaon, as a result of which 14 passengers were instantaneously killed and over 40 injured. Five bogies were smashed. The cause of the derailment was the removal of the outer rail of the down track. The accused were charged with having removed the rails and they were stated to have conspired in Vadale village to derail a train in pursuance of a political programme of sabotage.

The Judge held that though the Peshawar Express derailment was due to sabotage there was no evidence to show that the accused had removed the rail.

He disbelieved the evidence of the two approvers in the case, stating that they appeared to have been tutored.

He also held that the confessions of the accused were neither true nor voluntarily made.

The accused were charged with offences under the Railways Act, the Defence of India Rules and Sec. 302 I.P.C. (Murder).

In their statements before the Court the accused denied the offensive and said that they were forced to make certain confessions before the police. They also denied having any connection with the Congress.—A. P.

'TO FIND SHIPS FOR FOOD TO INDIA IS URGENT MILITARY NEED'

Moore Urges Implementing Of National Planning On Materials Collected By Nehru Committee

NEW DELHI, Nov. 9

India needs a steady flow of food and of consumer goods from abroad, declares Mr. Arthur Moore in a communication to the Press.

"Two necessities confront us", he declares, "The necessity for immediate salvage measures for Bengal, Orissa and large areas of Southern India and preparation of medical and sanitary plans to cope with a possible sudden sweep of epidemic disease; and the necessity for long-term planning to deal with the root scourge of inhuman poverty."

Mr. Moore quotes extensively from an article written by him in 1932 in which, foreseeing that "starvation itself" would finally step in, he advocated intensive planning and commended the Russian example. One reason why it was impossible to get a hearing in 1932, Mr. Moore proceeds, was that the increasing poverty was concealed by the sale of the gold savings of the people for export abroad which began the previous year and continued throughout the thirties.

Mr. Moore refers to unofficial response to suggestions for planning and mentions Mr. G. D. Birla's pamphlet "A Plea for Planning" and the National Planning Committee with Pt. Nehru as Chairman. The work of the Nehru Committee was interrupted when he and others were arrested but, says Mr. Moore, the material collected is presumably still available and the Government of India might find it of some use to-day.

FIND SHIPS FOR FOOD

"India's economy", Mr. Moore concludes, "has been progressively deranged since 1930. The war which has necessitated a large export of her products abroad and greater internal reservation of them for military purposes, has further increased the strain, as the public statements of Sir John Anderson in Parliament and of Lord Wavell before he left England have judiciously recognised.

To start recovery she needs a steady flow of food and of consumer goods from abroad, and to find ships for this is itself an urgent military necessity.

TIP TO BRITAIN

There will still be a large balance owing to India for goods even if the Allies start paying more in the form of imports and it is essential that payment of this balance by inflationary finance should end. Because Britain has tended to regard India as a possession, it has not occurred to her to adopt the same sound methods of War Finance as she adopted for America. In the last war, she immediately sent Lord Reading to arrange a large dollar loan, and in this war until Lease-Lend came to her aid not only did she strain her shipping resources to keep up her exports to the U.S.A. but she even sold out her private capital investments. If to-day Indian opinion were properly rallied to war effort and the financial reasons explained, Britain would have no difficulty in raising a rupee loan and if some British-owned properties were sold as well as any Indian securities, privately held in Britain, they would fetch a fair price."

GOVT. WILL ACCEPT DEMAND FOR ROYAL COMMISSION

All-Parties United Move In Central Assembly

NEW DELHI, Nov. 9

A demand for a Royal Commission to enquire into the food situation will be put forward during the forthcoming food debate in the Assembly and Lobby expectation is that it will be accepted on behalf of the Government of India for communication to His Majesty's Government. The demand has the support of all opposition parties in the House and has also been urged by the Bengal Hindu Sabha.

UNITED FRONT

Leaders of the Moslem League, Independent and Nationalist Parties and the European Group and a representative of the Congress Party will meet to-morrow to decide upon a formula to embody the demand. It will be moved as a joint amendment to the Food Member's motion that the situation be taken into consideration.

Lobby circles feel that the present programme to hold the debate on Friday, Monday and Tuesday would involve a break which should be avoided and the proposal is made that Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday be allotted instead.

As the Food Member indicated in reply to questions to-day, copies of the White Paper are expected to be made available to members in the next two or three days.

QUISLINGS IN YUGOSLAVIA WARNED

"Desert Nazis Or You Will Be Considered As Traitors"

CAIRO, Nov. 9.

A solemn final warning to anyone helping the Germans in Yugoslavia was broadcast to-night by the Commander-in-Chief in the Middle East, Sir Henry Maitland Wilson.

"In some areas of western Yugoslavia particularly Dalmatia, certain men are dishonouring the name of Chetnik and helping the Germans", he said. "These men are adding to this shame by claiming their actions to have British approval. This declaration is entirely false".

Once honest men who have been misled into helping the Germans must immediately desert the German service or they would be regarded as traitors to their own people and enemies of the United Nations.

Praising the successes of Yugoslav arms since the Italian surrender, General Wilson said, "I pledge all Yugoslav fighters all support which after consideration for the total requirements of combined Allied strategy it may be possible to supply".—Reuter.

City Police Retain Trophy

Record Crowd Witnesses Exciting Final At Parel

One of the most exciting finals was witnessed by a record crowd at the St. Xavier's College Gymkhana ground, Parel, on Monday, when the Bombay City Police, the holders, got the better of the W. I. A. A. Staff, the Senior Harwood League Champions, by the odd goal of five and retained the trophy.

Although the Police had the better of the exchanges in a terrific race, the automobilemen took the lead in the twentieth minute. Rashad being responsible for the goal. Soon after the re-start, Vandockum, levelled up matters for the 'Cops.' A hectic struggle ensued. The W. I. A. gained the upperhand again. Narayan converting a spot-kick. The Policemen were not, however, to be beaten. They made strenuous efforts to pull the chestnuts out of the fire, and succeeded in a glorious manner. Not only did they brought off the equaliser but scored the winning goal before time was called. Adams and Lazarus did the trick.

S. C. Ghosh ably supervised the game.

After the conclusion of the match, Mr. J. C. Maitra, President of the Indian Football League, heartily congratulated the winners on their well-deserved success and wished the losers better luck next year. Remarking on the great progress football has made in the north of Bombay Mr. Maitra took pride in the fact that some of the products of the Parel ground have shown themselves in glowing colours in the Rovers Cup recently. He expressed the hope that the north will produce All-India winners before long. Finally Mr. Maitra thanked all those who had contributed to the success of the tournament.

Mrs. Maitra gave away the trophies and medals to the winners and runners-up.

The City Police Band entertained the spectators with some fine pieces of music.

When Tenants Can Withhold Payment

The Bombay Tenants' Association has received the following letter from the Government of Bombay regarding rent and electricity charges:

"With reference to the correspondence ending with your letter dated September 7, I am directed to inform you that the following constitute increase of rent within the meaning of Sec. 7 (1) of the Bombay Rent Restriction Act, 1939 and clause 5 (1) of the Bombay Rent Restriction Order, 1942.

(a) Where rent of tenements was inclusive of rent for electric light for which a separate rent is now demanded. (b) Where a separate rent for electric consumption per unit was charged by the landlord and where an increase in this rent is now demanded. (c) Where rent is inclusive of electric light and served by a general meter in the name of the landlord which is now switched off earlier in the night thus reducing the hours of supply of electricity. I am also to inform you that in these cases, the tenants will be justified in withholding payment of the excess over Standard rent till the landlords stop recovering these unauthorised increase. In withholding payment of the excess over the Standard rent for the reasons, the tenants will not be liable for eviction. I am to suggest that this position may be explained to the members of your Association and to the public at large so that the tenants may be educated as regards their rights under the Rent Act and the Rent Order.

Echo Of Bansda Navjotes

(Before the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Coyajee in Chambers)

Jehangir Behramji Sukhadia....Plaintiff vs.

Gustadji B. Reporter and Others, Trustees of the Mewawalla's Aglary at Byculla .....Defendants.

This was an application by the plaintiff for the "de bene esse" examination of Dastur Maneckji Dhalla of Karachi who was shortly coming to Bombay on the point that the Zoroastrian religion permitted and even enjoined conversion.

This suit was filed for a declaration that the Plaintiff was entitled to enter the Aglary of which the defendants were trustees and for an injunction restraining the defendants from preventing the plaintiff from using the Aglary.

The Plaintiff's mother was the daughter of a Parsi by a non-Parsi woman who was not duly married. In June 1942 the Navjote ceremony of the Plaintiff and of his mother and of a large number of other persons was performed at Bansda by Ervad Bode. In September, 1942 the defendants passed a resolution prohibiting all these persons from entering the Aglary.

The defendants opposed the application on the ground that Dastur Dhalla's evidence would be irrelevant because the point at issue was whether person in the position of the Plaintiff was intended by the founder of the Aglary to its benefit and not whether the Zoroastrian religion enjoined conversion or not.

His Lordship ordered that the suit be placed on board on 25th November for taking Dastur Dhalla's evidence in Court.

TETE-A-TETE

WITHOUT COMMENT

MOSCOW, November 8.

The review "War and Working Class" in an editorial to-day on the Moscow conference said: "The position of some of the States which still adhere to the policy of neutrality, as, for example, Turkey, will be of big significance. The passing of such neutral States to the policy of direct support for the anti-Hitler coalition will be of important significance for solving the task of decreasing the duration of the war."

Asked in the Central Assembly whether India's (sic) representatives to the Civil Aviation Conference in London went "with a completely blank mind," Sir G. Bewoor replied: "No Sir, with an open mind."

All right. Let the Hon. Spokesman have his own terminological way.

* * *

Defending Government's action in sending a war-propaganda delegation to Britain and the U.S.A., Sir Sultan Ahmad considered it "his duty to clear misconceptions which seemed to surround" it.

It certainly WAS his duty. What else is he an Honourable Member for? And he discharged it too by bringing out the real conceptions, as it were, about the delegation. For he revealed that it was sent in response to a demand from "India's" Agent General in U.S.A. and the British Ministry of Information. This clearing up of misconceptions is so satisfactory that we need not ask why "India's" Agent-General and the British Ministry of Information felt it necessary to ask for reinforcements.

* * *

Sir Sultan Ahmad's assurance that part of the delegation's expenses would be borne by His Majesty's Government was, we notice, welcomed with laughter.

We only hope Sir Sultan had enough sense of humour to see and understand the point of the joke.

* * *

But it was left to Sir A. Ramaswamy Mudaliar (an old expert in constitutonal principles and democratic ethics) to lift the debate to a high Ramaswamyesque plane by claiming that "Government were in a better position to judge whether India's war effort should be publicised abroad."

Never in his seven and a half years did Lord Linlithgow do a more valuable job of statesmanlike work than when he brought Sir A. Ramaswamy Mudaliar, decisively rejected at the polls, to New Delhi.

* * *

Thus Hitler: "When the war began, the enemy in the east was a mere 150 kilometres from Berlin. In the west his frontier force threatened the Reich from gunshot range."

When the war ends the enemy will be in Berlin.

* * *

Washington reports that President Roosevelt has summoned military and naval chiefs to the White House for an unexpected conference.

We refuse to be excited.

Rationing And Malad

Mr. G. G. Gokhale, Public Relations Officer, in reply to the letter of Mr. S. K. Buch regarding the "Neglected Little Places" feels self-complacent at the introduction of the new system by which an individual would get his or her quota of ration only on two days in a week from the Government Grain Shop, which is only one and not three as mentioned by him. He also does not seem to know that the population of Malad proper is about 20,000. The quota mentioned is such that it presupposes every single individual to go to the Government Grain Shop to get the rationed articles. If that is done, would it be possible for the single Government Grain Shop to cope with the work? Instead of explaining away matters of the greatest public concern like the food in such an ambiguous way, why does not Mr. Gokhale explain the difficulties, if any, in the way of introduction of Rationing Scheme in these Neglected Little Places?

Humanitarian 'Poppy Fund' Appeal

In a generous humanitarian gesture and assurance of goodwill and sympathy to cheer up and encourage the millions of British and Indian heroic fighting men and their comrades in arms, The Ex-Services Association of India and the Indian Soldiers Board, has made a "Poppy Day Appeal-1943" in aid of Indian and British ex-servicemen to supplement their funds. The subscriptions realised will be equally divided between the two Associations who will be responsible for the after-care of the wounded and incapacitated soldiers and also for the education of the children of these who have lost their lives in fighting.

Christmas cards and calendars may not be sent this year to prisoners of war in enemy hands. This restriction is necessary as information has been received that delivery of the ordinary private mail, which every prisoner of war is anxious to receive, is greatly delayed owing to the fact that the time of the enemy censors is largely taken up in the censoring of Christmas cards and calendars.

Hitler Speaks Of Hour Of Retaliation

Realises Havoc Of Allied Bombings And Vows Vengeance On Britain

LONDON, November 8.

The German News Agency said to-night that Hitler had spoken to a gathering of old Nazi veterans in Loewenbrau Beer Cellar in Munich.

The agency said, "Hitler gave them as their watchword for the November celebrations of 1943 the slogan." "The meaning of our honour is loyalty".

Hitler said whatever happens we will overcome all obstacles and in the end victory will smile on us. Whether our enemies believe it or not, OUR DAY OF VENGEANCE WILL COME AND IF WE CANNOT REACH AMERICA THERE IS A STATE VERY NEAR US WHICH WILL PAY DEARLY.

Hitler said: It is one thing to land in Sicily but quite another to invade across the Channel or in Norway. Germany will never weaken. The war will be fought fanatically to the end.

Whatever sacrifices we have to bear now they are not to be compared with what we would have to bear if we lost this war. Hitler said: If the Allies try to open a Second Front it will be seen whether the reserves we have been keeping in many fields are a sign of weakness or prudence.

However long the war lasts, Germany will never capitulate.

Everything is possible but that I should lose my nerve is impossible.

Dealing with the period leading up to the war, Hitler said, "Some think it might have been possible by swearing to give up all armaments to the tame Bolshevist giant.

That is as if the chickens and geese solemnly declared that they would never attack the fox, so hoping to impress the fox.

In this war England is the prime moving force, the personification of aggression in an unholy compact with Jews.

That only repeats the history of the first world war. Such immense struggle cannot end twice the same way, November 9, 1943 is not the same as November 9, 1918.

When the war began the enemy in the east was a mere 150 kilometres from Berlin. In the west his frontier forces threatened the Reich from gunshot range.

But now this National Socialist state has almost everywhere driven the enemy back more than 1,000 kilometres from the frontiers of the Reich.

UGLY SCENE

Whatever sacrifices we have to bear now, they are not to be compared with what we would have to bear if we lose the war. Therefore, I must demand everyone to give his utmost at all times wherever the fight may be.

The treachery of the King of Italy, the Italian Crown Prince and their clique brought about a situation which looked definitely ugly. In spite of everything, we were to re-establish the situation and it proved afterwards better than before.

Of course the Italian collapse could not be without consequences on the war situation as a whole. But the race to the Brenner has become a very slow crawl.

Every new landing the enemy may undertake will pin down more shipping and split up the enemy's forces, giving us opportunities for counter-blows.

It will then be seen whether the reserves we have been keeping in many fields are signs of weakness or prudence.

The struggle in the east is the hardest the German people have ever known. But the last battle will be decisive and the German people will win it.

Enemy propaganda will be powerless. They have spoken of the dangers of winter, of starvation, of the length of the war. THEY THOUGHT THE BOMB TERROR WOULD DO THE TRICK. But people exposed to such heavy burdens will never lose strength of resistance.

Enemy propaganda pretends that the Allies have already achieved victory. But in reality they dash from one conference to another to bridge over conflicts within their ranks.

SHAPING WORLD

They set up committees to study the shape of the world after the war. They would do better to think out how to shape their own world at present.

The United States has 13 million unemployed and is not master in its own house. I do not know if there are in Germany today any people who hope for a better future through an Allied victory.

I can only say that only criminals would be prepared to act as executioners of their own people. The mass of the people do not hope for such a victory but individual criminals think they can improve their own future through treachery.

We know how to cope with such criminals. At a time when hundreds of thousands of our best comrades had to lay down their lives we shall not be scared of calling to order other nations who are not ready to make such sacrifices themselves.

We shall not shrink from handing over for summary execution the few hundred criminals we have at home."

Turning to the air-war, Hitler continued, "The suffering of the German people through bombing are enormous. At the beginning of the war the President of the United States sents me a hypocritical request not to embark on bombing war.

But that request was only to give the other side time to prepare bombing. IT PAINS ME TO SEE PEOPLE LOSE THEIR BELONGINGS. What is of no importance at all is the damage to our industry and towns. We can rebuild them and so we shall within a very short time. British and Americans plan rebuilding of the world. I am planning rebuilding of Germany. The hour of retaliation will come. America at the moment may still be too far away but there is one country almost at our doorstep and it is this country with which we shall deal.

Our enemies believe they can weaken the German people's will to resist. This is an illusion. Hundreds of thousands of bombedout people will become the advance guard of revenge.

However long this war lasts, we shall never capitulate. We shall go on fighting past 12 o'clock. Every day our enemies spread new rumours.

They said I had nervous breakdown that I dismissed my friend Field Marshal Goering, that I dismissed my Generals or Generals dismissed me. Everything is possible in this war except that I should lose my nerve.

I believe that Providence, when she has designed a man for great purposes, does not break that man before he has achieved them. I am proud I have been given the task to imbue my people with strength and faith that I may say "be calm, come what may; victory will be ours in the end."

I shall be going back to-morrow but you must go home with fanatical confidence and believe that there can be nothing but victory.

"If the German people should break under the present test I would not shed a tear for them, for then, they would deserve their fate", Hitler concluded broadcast.

March option opened at 19-41 and advanced to 19.55 which was the highest level reached during the first hour. DR. MUKHERJEE ACCUSES SIND GOVT.

Why Scindia Steamer Could Not Bring Foodgrains

Dr. Syamaprasad Mookerjee, in a statement to the press regarding the relief steamer which was offered by the Scindia Company for free carriage of foodgrains from Karachi to Calcutta, states that "The generous offer of the premier Indian Shipping Company has not materialised through no fault of theirs. The Bengal Relief Committee sent a man all the way to Sind to obtain foodgrains by payment, if necessary, but the Sind Government were not prepared to forego their profits on the quantity of foodgrains shipped to Bengal. This desire of the Sind Government to profiteer has also been adversely commented upon in the White Paper issued by the British Government as well as in the statement issued by Sardar Baldev Singh, Development Minister of the Punjab. I need hardly point out that both His Majesty's Government and the Punjab Ministry are, if anything politically biased in favour of the Muslim League so that there is absolutely no question of any partisan or communal consideration in condemning the Sind Government's unwillingness to part with foodgrains for Bengal.

The Bengal Relief Committee the Indian Chamber of Commerce as well as myself appealed to the Government of India to induce the Sind Government to ship over and above the allotted quota to Bengal and although the Central Government were sympathetic and exerted themselves, they were unable to move the Sind Government. This is only one more example of the total lack of coordination in food matters between the Central Government and the Provincial Governments of Sind and Bengal and poignantly illustrates the imperative need of a uniform and comprehensive all-India policy by the Central Government in the interests of the country as a whole. Such a policy can, however, be formulated and executed only by a Government representative of the will of the people and working in close co-operation with them."

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN
Respect of Other Men

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. You get yellow tongue, yellow skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, gas, dizziness, headache. You have become an ugly-looking, foul-smelling, sour-thinking person. Everybody wants to run from you.

Laxatives can't help, for they only move out the tail end of your bowels and that doesn't take away the decayed poison.

Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels. The one mild vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. No calomel in Carter's. Only fine, mild, vegetable extracts. If you would bring back your personal charm, start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills according to directions today.

The Half-Column "By Dim"

Seen by the local censors nearly half-a-dozen times, chopped and cut by censorship and now ready for release is the picture THIS LAND IS MINE. When publicly released this picture MUST BE SEEN. Among the lines cut by the censors—so I am told—is the line from Charles Laughton's speech in Court which read: "This land is mine and no one else has a right to it." Many other things have been cut for obvious reasons—the same sort of reasons which made cuts in THE MOON IS DOWN. It is the story of a country under German occupation, but it is more than just another war story. It is to my mind an odessey to liberty and the rights of man—then great and cherished possessions of free men. Even to see the idea on the screen was like a breath of fresh air. Send your children to this picture. They will imbibe great ideas while they are still young for they are the new generation and they will be the foundation of the new world which will be built on the ashes of the one that has been bombed away. THIS LAND IS MINE is a great title which should touch the Indian heart and the Indian soul.

More than a week has passed since the seizure from Wheeler's bookstall of the two books by Karaka. Since then "Karaka-Hits Propaganda" has been returned and no further copies of "I Go West" have been taken by the police. No one can say on what authority the books were taken. The Government of Bombay have nothing to do with the incident, though it is clear that their powers have been encroached upon. Meanwhile, the publishers of both books have had copies returned to them from booksellers who are under the impression that these books are banned. There is no notification to this effect, nor is there any explanation from the authorities to say what exactly is the position with regard to these books. Some elucidation from the authorities would be appreciated.
